The Texas Safety Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of the Safety Profession and the protection of workers by providing scholarships and professional development grants to deserving students entering the Safety Profession. TSF was established for the encouragement and support of safety and health education and research within the State of Texas. The Foundation has funded many worthy projects, persons and programs, such as the Texas Youth Safety Program, The National Safe Kids Campaign, and safety-related portions of the Texas 4-H competition. Additionally, the Foundation has annually funded scholarships for students participating in associate degree programs at Texas State Technological College, as well as post-graduate studies (masters and doctoral) in safety-related fields at Texas Tech University.
